How it works

We make hosting an event as easy as possible. Here's how the process works:

- 1. Browse the menu. Are you looking for music or theatre? Maybe a show for families or something different to welcome new visitors to your venue? Let us know your preferred dates or ask more about the shows.
- 2. We'll liaise with the performers to agree the dates and prepare contracts. For indoors shows, we work on a subsidy basis, whereby Applause pays the full price of the show to the performers and then the hosts pay us a contribution, made up of a Minimum Fee, plus 40% of ticket sales (in excess of the Minimum Fee). The Minimum Fee is listed with each show in the menu.
- 3. Making the arrangements We will put you in touch with the performing company so that you can make arrangements for the day, such as their arrival times. Remember that your event will need to have the necessary licenses and insurance in place.
- 4. Marketing the show. Alongside your marketing efforts, we are on hand to chat to you about how to market the show. We will supply you with a range of marketing materials including images, posters and flyers.
- 5. Selling tickets. We can support you in selling tickets through our online ticketing system via our website. Many hosts also sell tickets in their local community and we can supply physical tickets if this is useful. Recommended ticket prices are given on each show page as a guideline.
- 6. Checking in. We'll be in touch before the show to check everything is going to plan and to offer any help with the final arrangements.

- 7. After the show. We will invoice you for the relevant fee and ask you to complete a feedback form. This is really important in helping us to secure our funding and continue to support you and the shows in the future.

Pipeline Theatre

George and the Drag Queen

Fete brought them together

Pipeline Theatre grasps the issue of immigration in rural communities in its own inimitable way - finding the funny, the weird and the wonderful.

Former St. John's Ambulance volunteer Maddy recollects the strange encounter she witnessed between George, a fellow volunteer, and Usman, a refugee, at a village summer fete. George - bluff, a fount of old-school, wise-cracking banter now close to retirement, and self-appointed mentor to Maddy - asthmatic, unlucky in love, but with more than enough wit to outsmart George.

George and Maddy are expecting a quiet day. But a stranger, Usman appears in their gazebo. It turns out Usman and George know each other from a former, almost unrecognisable life. A twist of 'fete'. The fallout turns this into a fete like no other.

Pipeline Theatre uses comedy, heartbreak, music, a transmogrifying set, pin-sharp dialogue and indelible characters, to show that when caught in the riptide of history, you never know who might just save your life...

This show is part of the national Create Tour Connect project.

Lung and a Half Full Theatre

Tales for an Unruly Audience

An evening of myth, mirth, and mischief!

In ancient times people would gather on nights very much like this one, in a place not so dissimilar to this. They would come together, perhaps even get a little rowdy... and tell stories.

Lung and a Half Full Theatre present a spectacular evening of myth, mirth, and magic, with a selection of ancient tales performed for your viewing pleasure by the Lord of Unreason himself: George Atwill.

Tales for an Unruly Audience is a responsive storytelling experience inspired by bardic tradition. No two shows are the same. Mixing audience participation with carnivalesque revelry, you are invited to join us for stories of gods and goddesses, great giants, precious treasures, and forbidden knowledge.

With tales of witches and wizards, wise men and fools, come spend an hour with the Abbot of Misrule...

This show contains many moments of voluntary audience participation but everyone is free to take part however they wish.

Some performances of this show are part of the Inn Crowd project.

Mary Lincoln

Marcella's Minute to Midnight

You start out starring in the story of your own life, only to find you've become a bit part player in everyone else's

Written and performed by Mary Lincoln, directed by Samuel Ripman.

Marcella's tale takes a wryly humorous look at the challenges and opportunities that can arise, for all of us, in later life.

Marcella is a teacher, mother, wife and carer, in her mid sixties. Her awakening happens when a botched eBay order forces her into the loft and prompts the de-cluttering of a lifetime. Faced with artefacts that provoke a host of vivid memories, Marcella embarks on an unexpected journey through her past. Choosing what to hold on to and what to let go of brings her close to a full-blown late life crisis.

But surrounded by seemingly discarded objects and aspirations, Marcella starts to wonder if she is still allowed a dream or two of her own.

Mary Lincoln's professional career has spanned theatre, music theatre, improvisation, television, drama and film. In her witty one woman show she explores universal themes of parental influence, mental health, misplaced guilt, and the fear of loss of purpose.

"Mary Lincoln's heroine, Marcella, is no more or less than ... a regular human who has to cope with life's ordinary challenges"

SELENE

A story about the goddess and the dark side of the moon

An intimate and communal theatrical experience which captures the magic and awe of the moon and the stories we tell about it. Made with and told by Australian film, television and theatre actor Meg Drury.

This storytelling show features one performer with the audience sat in the round. There are four lamps in the performance space, which the performer uses to tell the story accompanied by a cinematic score. The experience is simple, intimate and highly engaging.

A young girl watches the moon landings on repeat. A teenager makes a list of all the things they are not. A young adult starts to discover who they are. A story about the light and dark sides of all of us and the wild stuff inside.

WRIGHT&GRAINGER are internationally award winning storytellers and musicians based in rural North Yorkshire. They weave worlds from music and spoken word. Since 2016 their wild retellings of Ancient Greek myths have taken them around the world, touring across the UK, Australia, New Zealand, Bali, India, Europe and transferring work to New York.

Come together and enjoy an ancient story brought into the 21st century.

"SELENE is joyous, funny, heartfelt and life-affirming. In just over an hour, we time-travel to witness a girl transform into a goddess. Go for the show, stay for Meg Drury's extraordinary performance and revel in its darkness and its light"

Ropetackle Storytellers

Jekyll & Hyde

"If he be Mr Hyde, I shall be Mr Seek..."

Award-winning performers Amelia Ace Armande and Joshua Crisp reanimate the classic Gothic thriller by Robert Louis Stevenson. Blending the original text with sinuous physicality, dark humour and clever prop puppetry, they morph seamlessly between characters, and conjure up the misty, murky streets of Stevenson's Victorian London.

Utterson the lawyer has a strange case on his hands. One involving blackmail, murder most foul - and his close friend Doctor Henry Jekyll.

On the surface, it seems as though Doctor Jekyll & Mr Hyde couldn't be more different from one another. But there is a dark secret that binds the two men together. One that Utterson cannot get to the bottom of...

In this tense two-hander, through snatches of conversation, interview and confession, we uncover the grisly facts that link the celebrated doctor to the monstrous Mr Hyde. But in this fantastical narrative, what can possibly be the truth?

Bones in the Desert

Two lives. One past. A hundred years apart

Berlin, 2022. Artur, a 19-year-old refugee, is stuck in a city that doesn't feel like home - caught between worlds, and haunted by the ghosts of his escape from the Syrian civil war.

Someone from that journey suddenly reappears and what begins as a joyful reunion soon becomes a reckoning with identity, memory and the question of how to be free.

From the deserts of 1915 to the chaos of today, this powerful new play traces the shadows of war and the lives it still shapes. With raw honesty and urgency, it confronts mental wellbeing, racism in contemporary Europe and the devastating cost of silence.

Written by British-Armenian playwright Joe Nersessian, the play speaks directly to young adult audiences with heart, humour and an unflinching gaze. It's about where we come from, who we carry with us and what it means to belong.

Bones in the Desert is an immersive production. There is no assigned seating and audiences stand and move throughout the performance.

This is the latest production from Half Moon, the UK's leading small-scale young people's venue and touring company.

The Railway Children

No Wifi. No Xbox. And water from a well?!
They're a long way from home.

Bobbie, Peter and Phyllis have been swept off to the English countryside by their Mom, who is suddenly far too busy to play.

Left to explore their new home, it's not long before the railway calls from the bottom of the garden. As they follow the tracks to the local station, they discover a whole new world with some slightly strange characters, romance, peril and questions that definitely need answering!

Paperback Theatre specialises in fresh, modern adaptations of classic family stories. This is a fast paced and funny retelling of Edith Nesbit's story of a family divided, a community coming together, and a mystery being solved in the rustic charm of the English countryside.

Told with just three actors, this new version by Charis McRoberts is the perfect family show - zippy enough for the little ones, with plenty of jokes, nostalgia and heartache for grown ups.

With an optional interval and intimate staging means the show suits all spaces and has no technical requirements.

The best stories make us feel deeply

In the 15 years she has been writing and performing, Hannah has become an exceptional storyteller.

Career highlights include having her song No Gravity featured on the hit international TV series Grey's Anatomy, recording a live session on BBC Radio 2 with Dermot O'Leary and opening for Madeleine Peyroux, performing to an audience of 2,000.

Her music is shaped by human connections, with family, in all its chaos and glory, sitting at the heart of her work. Her lyrics are powerful and poignant, and her voice feels strangely familiar, though you can't quite put your finger on why. Her writing may be deeply personal but her music has a universal appeal that goes beyond the melodies you catch yourself humming in the days after listening to her songs.

She has also shared the stage with folk luminaries such as Seth Lakeman, Cara Dillon and Fairport Convention and has performed at festivals including Cambridge, Sidmouth and Manchester Folk. Equally at home in small venues, she thrives on the intimacy of performing in spaces where she can look audience members in the eye.
